Charley Ah Him's Wife No. 1
Deserts Him

FOR AMERICAN PROTECTION.

And Declares That She Will Never
Return to His Bed and
Board—Charley Ah Him's
Statement.

Last March Charley Ah Him, one of the brightest and best known of the ruling spirits of Chinatown, and the invaluable lieutenant of Ah Mow, skipped up to San Francisco and married a new wife. The circumstances of this matrimonial episode are more particularly narrated in a letter from the Chinese mission to Chief of Police Glass, which is here appended:

CHINESE MISSION, M. E. CHURCH,
SAN FRANCISCO, April 28, 1890.
J. M. Glass, Esq., Chief of Police, Los Angeles, Cal. DEAR SIR: I am in receipt of your letter of the 25th inst., and I am glad to hear you all I can. I extracted the following from the "Mission Diary," March 6, 1890:

"Ah Ying, rescued from Wong's brothel," was found in a room back of a laundry on Jackson street. She married the man who helped her out and went with him (Charley Ah Him) to Los Angeles, March 10. This note was made by the mission of this institution. I now give you an extract from my church record of baptism: "1890, March 10, Kwan Kwok Pang, 34 years, married to the woman Lee Ah Ying, 35 years; the man's residence, Los Angeles; officiating minister, F. J. Masters; parties both heathen."

I do not remember much about these people, but I have an impression that the man was an interpreter at Los Angeles. I remember he was a very gentlemanly man. He came with a marriage license, and the girl was perfectly willing to marry him, speak Chinese, and the whole service was in Chinese. I explained everything to her. She knew what she was doing, and if she had bound herself to a villain that is her own fault, as she stated positively that she was a good man. It is also the custom to request a woman when she is brought to the mission to stay twelve months at least. If unwilling to stay that time she must marry and leave, as this is not a hotel. I explained to the woman that it was dangerous to marry so soon after leaving a brothel, and that it would be better to remain with us twelve months, so as to enable us to institute inquiries into the character of the man. She was determined to marry the man, and as we determined to retain her against her will, I performed the ceremony which made them man and wife. I am convinced there is a great deal of wickedness in the matter of these marriages, and the certificate is looked upon as a kind of deed which entitles the man to the woman, as so much real estate, that can be turned into money. If we could discover a clear case, it would be well to the advantage of it, make it an example.

Yours truly, FREDERICK J. MASTERS.
Ah Ying, whom Charley Ah Him has just acquired as his conjugal chattel, is a nice looking Chinese girl, about Chinese girls go, apparently not over 16 or 17 years of age. She was installed in Charley's household here in apparent oblivion of the fact that Charley already had another wife, who has lived with him several years, and who is the mother of his child.

A day or two ago the senior wife, feeling that she was being crowded out, or abused, or neglected, cleared her husband's bed and board, taking her child with her and claiming protection from the local Chinese mission, Rev. Mr. Condit, and declaring that she would not return to her husband's house. She had been allowed enough to take with her the record of her marriage to Charley in China, and also the marriage certificate of Charley Ah Ying in San Francisco. So she has the evidence of Charley's bigamy in a pretty conclusive form.

Charley applied to the police authorities to get his old wife back, but, meeting a rebuff from that quarter, he supposed that he got Mrs. Watson to intercede for him, as a request as to the whereabouts of the runaway shortly came from that benevolent lady.

The usual method pursued by the Mongolian husbands when a wife, or unwelcome piece of property, is about to slip away from them in this way is to swear out a warrant charging the woman with the larceny of the jewelry, trinkets or clothing she wears, and then, after throwing her into jail and working the hocus-pocus of the law, the husband finally gets her back into his clutches.

For fear that Charley Ah Him might work the legal racket, as usual, his runaway wife has concluded to take a course of safety, which is kept secret. It is possible that she has already gone to San Francisco.

It is understood that, as a course of the usual operation of the law in such cases, proceedings are to be commenced against Charley Ah Him for bigamy, and he may be punished severely for his crime if it can be proven against him.

INTERVIEW WITH CHARLEY AH HIM.
A Times reporter interviewed Charley Ah Him at midnight at his house in the Chinese quarter. In a statement to the Times man he said: "I cannot understand why the woman left me. Night before last she said she felt sick and wanted me to call a doctor; in fact, she has been sick for some time past. I waited on her until nearly morning, when she made me lie down and rest, as I had to be in court early in the morning. She then left unknown to me, and, taking my child with her, went to the police station. I have not been able to see her since. I have never abused her and have always treated her right. I supported her family, and about a year ago I paid for the funeral expenses when her mother died. I have never committed bigamy, as I understand the law. About two months ago I married a Chinese girl in San Francisco, from the mission there, and she is my lawful wife. The other woman has been my mistress for the past ten years, but I never married her. We Chinese always maintain two or three women, but I have never married the other woman. I wrote to her today and told her that I would do anything I could for her, and if she needed money to send me, she has two trunks of clothing here I told her she could send for. I have paid doctor bills for her here and in Fresno, and have done all I could for her while she was with me. I am very sorry she left me without an explanation. Here is her brother, Toy Yuen, who can tell you how I treated her."

To the Times reporter Toy Yuen corroborated all that Charley Ah Him had stated, and said further that his sister had been treated well. My wife left yesterday for Fresno on a visit. If I could see this woman and my child I am sure they would return to me. I am willing even now to send her clothing to her, and money if she needs it, but I think she acted wrong toward me in leaving me the way she did without a word of explanation. I have taken care of her and kept her from being an inmate of a house of ill-fame."

Charley Ah Him is a very intelligent Chinaman and uses good English. He is a prominent man among the Chinese, and seems to feel the trouble that has come upon him keenly, but asserts his ability to disprove any charge of bigamy.

THE LOTTERY CASES.

Agile Squirreling of the Ticket-Sellers.

Mrs. Ferner, Ellis Cohn, Max Harris, R. Sanders, Samuel Wolfstein and A. Greenwald were before Justice Austin yesterday charged with selling lottery tickets. Objections were made by the defense that the court had no jurisdiction. The objection was overruled. The case was set for trial on the 10th inst. The defense made the testimony being that of an accomplice was not admissible, as it was not corroborated. This was also overruled, when the old chestnut of "constitutional" was sprung—that as the Lottery was organized under State laws the arrest for selling its tickets was unconstitutional. This was also overruled, when Mrs. Gray, police matron, testified to having purchased tickets from each of the defendants. The case was submitted without argument, and the defendants were held to appear for sentence tomorrow morning.

THE COAST LINE.

A CONVENTION CALLED BY SANTA BARBARA

To Consider the Proposition of Organizing a New Company to Parallel the Southern Pacific Road.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce held its regular weekly meeting yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with C. M. Wells in the chair.

Several matters of importance came up, among which was a communication from Santa Barbara, which was read by Maj. Jones. The communication is to the effect that while President Huntington of the Southern Pacific was in that city he informed the citizens that it would be impossible for his company to think about the coast line extension this year. He promised them to look into the matter in 1891. The people of Santa Barbara are very anxious to have the line completed as soon as possible, and the other day they held a mass meeting at which resolutions were adopted, calling a convention at San Jose on the 25th of next month. They appointed five delegates to represent the counties of Southern California that are interested to each appoint a like number.

After discussing the subject Maj. Jones moved that a citizens meeting be called in this city next Monday for the purpose of appointing delegates and discussing the proposition set forth by the Santa Barbara meeting. The Santa Barbara people propose to build a road of their own from Los Angeles to San Francisco in case the Southern Pacific will not complete the coast line at once. They are of the opinion that they can form a joint-stock company with a capital of $10,000,000 without any trouble.

At Monday's meeting a set of resolutions asking Congress to do something for Los Angeles and San Pedro before an adjournment is taken will be presented, and if the resolutions are approved, they will be telegraphed to the Committee on Commerce.

On motion of Capt. Barrett, the secretary was instructed to ask the Council to have Main street, in front of the chamber, kept in better condition.

CONCLUDED TO STAY.

Why Meyer Lewis Changed His Plan.

In this issue of THE TIMES the Meyer Lewis shoe house announces a reopening of their business. Some time ago Meyer Lewis & Co. resolved to retire from business, and published an affidavit, sworn to before a notary public, that to that effect. In an interview with a Times reporter yesterday, Mr. Lewis said:

"Yes, sir, at the time I published the affidavit of my retirement I had firmly resolved to give up business. My partners at that time agreed to purchase my interest in this business, but when the time came to settle up, I was compelled to purchase the entire interest of the firm of Meyer Lewis & Co. in this city in order to protect myself. Of course I purchase the stock, fixtures and goods, but at an immense sacrifice, and I have decided to remain in business in this city. My interests are all here; my home is here, and I propose to do what I can to build up the business interests of Los Angeles. I am a firm believer in printers' ink, and shall keep the public posted as to what it can do in my line. I think the inducements I can offer to the public now, after purchasing the stock at a sacrifice, will prove a benefit to the people of this city. I have been all over the State lately, and have seen clearly that this is the best city in California to do business in, and I hope to continue this business as profitably as I did the business of Meyer Lewis & Co."

RUCKER'S CANYON.

Tracing the Murders of Attorney Hardie.

Dr. Haynes has received the following letter from Col. Gray, who was his host at the period of Mr. Hardie's murder. Col. Gray was formerly a Texas ranger, and is well versed in the habits of the Indians. His was the first, if not the only party which has explored Rucker's Cañon since the murder.

GRAY'S RANCH, May 30, 1890.
Dr. Haynes—DEAR SIR: Yesterday [Sunday] I got together five of my friends and went out to Rucker's Cañon. Mr. Hardie was shot. There were positively three and possibly four Indians, and the shooting was short range, not over sixty feet. We are all surprised at your escape. We found the glasses and canteen and will send them to you. Mr. Pritham, your truly, Gray.
P.S. You were correct in your description of the Indian's appearance. It is so called by the Indians. I am sure you had good judgment ever to make the escape you did.

Base-ball Today.

The Pomona club will arrive this morning, and this afternoon the first game of a series of three will be played at the First-street grounds. Each club has won an equal number of games, and this series will decide the championship of Southern California. Strong and Graves will be in the points for the visiting nine, and Pier and Leland will constitute the battery for the home team. Game will not be called until 3 o'clock, so that everybody can see the street parade in honor of the dead heroes, and then arrive at the grounds in time to see the first ball thrown over the plate. Games will also be played Saturday and Sunday. The first-street cable cars pass the grounds.

ABOUT THE MILFORD EXTENSION

A Salt Lake Report and a San Diego Comment Thereon—The Coast Line Again.

Ex-Mayor Workman has just returned from San Francisco, where he met President Adams of the Union Pacific, who, with several high officials of his company, making a tour of this coast. Mr. Workman probably has the rumor which was first given in these columns, to the effect that the Santa Fé and Union Pacific have joined hands, and that the Union Pacific will complete the Atlantic and Pacific road from Mojave to San Francisco.

Mr. Adams stated that he is coming to this coast as soon as possible, and he proposes to get business, if he has to fight for it. With the Santa Fé and the Union Pacific working together, things ought to boom on this coast. President Adams probably will come down here next week. He will make a thorough inspection of the country, and will be in this neighborhood some days.

The Salt Lake Tribune has this to say about

THE MILFORD EXTENSION

The Union Pacific will have four routes to select from when building south of Clover Valley. The route from Milford to Pioche, which is the one favored by the company, is a forty-five mile long, the Pioche branch being thirty miles long from Clover, and that will be in running order some time this year. But the California route can hardly be built before another year, and when the choice between the routes is made, the company cannot be sure of it. When the time comes for that, the division engineer and his assistants will be called in to make a final decision. The route selected will be let out by contract, at the same as the line now being built from Milford to near Lindero. The line from Milford to Pioche via Clover Valley Junction; thence south to west via Bristol, Freiburg, Timpanah, Brown and the best of the American west to Barstow, 373 miles from the junction. The second route surveyed is from Milford to near Lindero, thence to near Meadow Valley Junction; thence to near Mojave to Las Vegas, and via Good Springs to San Francisco, 385 miles. The third route is practically the same as the last, to Las Vegas; thence it diverges to the west, to near the junction of the Atlantic and Pacific roads from Clover Valley Junction. The fourth route runs from Milford to near Lindero, thence to near the junction of the Atlantic and Pacific roads from Clover Valley Junction; thence to near the junction of the Atlantic and Pacific roads from Clover Valley Junction.

The contractors have graded ninety miles of the Union Pacific extension, toward Pioche from Milford, but no rails have been laid, as they cannot be had. The contractors therefore have a hard time of it in supplying by wagon across the country. Besides the grading, kiln-dried ties and concrete blocks have been laid down. The company having decided to use old iron rails for this extension. The procuring of these rails is also making delay, as they can only be had in small quantities. It is going on with rapidity, and it is expected that the old rails are to be used in cases where the company is not sure of the purpose of the company to put the line through the country, but those on the inside say the reason is that the work of construction, hauling heavy material, etc., will give these old rails all they can stand and will wear them out. Then the other line south will be laid with steel track, thus saving them from wear with the heavy work of transporting construction material.

Fifty miles of the road on the Utah division of the Union Pacific will be relaid with 60-pound steel next month.

SANTA BARBARA COMMENT.

In commenting on the above item, editorially, the San Diego Union says: As will be seen from an article from the Salt Lake Tribune, published elsewhere, the Union Pacific is actively engaged in the work of extension through Southern Utah. Mr. Murray calls attention to the fact that while the time came to settle up, I was compelled to purchase the entire interest of the firm of Meyer Lewis & Co. in this city in order to protect myself. Of course I purchase the stock, fixtures and goods, but at an immense sacrifice, and I have decided to remain in business in this city. My interests are all here; my home is here, and I propose to do what I can to build up the business interests of Los Angeles. I am a firm believer in printers' ink, and shall keep the public posted as to what it can do in my line. I think the inducements I can offer to the public now, after purchasing the stock at a sacrifice, will prove a benefit to the people of this city. I have been all over the State lately, and have seen clearly that this is the best city in California to do business in, and I hope to continue this business as profitably as I did the business of Meyer Lewis & Co."

HE WAS ASSAILED.

To Ask Again, but His Frank Letter Got It for Him.

A few months ago one of the unfortunate inmates in the San Francisco Alms-house was inspired by the sensational statements in the newspapers with the belief that Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla would help him. But without money, how to get it was the question. Finally he wrote to the Edwin W. Joy Co., appealing to their generosity, and if not unheeded, a covered preparation being sent by the next parcel delivery. Its effect is best told in a subsequent letter, from which we quote the following:

"I suppose you know me by this writing, and my circumstances and condition. Although I am improving, I ask of your generosity for another bottle of your Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla. The action of its laxative properties is perfect. It has thoroughly regulated my system, and my catarrh, rheumatism, constipation, and headaches are all better. I feel better than I have in many months. I do not know how to express my gratitude to you. It was sent, and he can get more if he needs it."

anxious to have the Southern Pacific

complete the coast line between this city and San Francisco. It seems that they did not get much encouragement from President Huntington during his visit to them a few days ago, and they are talking about building an independent line. This looks all right on paper, and is a nice thing for chambers of commerce and boards of trade to play with, but building railroads is not child's play, and it is doubtful whether Mr. Huntington will allow himself to be frightened into building until he gets ready. He told the people of Southern California that he would build the 125-mile break in the coast line as soon as he could get around to it, which will probably be in 1891. Even if the people of Santa Barbara had the money for this scheme in bank now, it would take them at least four years to build the road between Los Angeles and San Francisco, whereas Mr. Huntington can complete his line in a few months.

NOTES.

Col. E. E. Hewitt, who was suddenly called to San Francisco last Saturday on business connected with the Southern Pacific, has returned home.

Last night two carloads of Holland farmers bound for Merced passed through this city on the Southern Pacific 10:40 train.

The Southern Pacific started five Sunset special cars yesterday.

The Southern Pacific will run regular Sunday specials to Santa Monica today to accommodate the G.A.R. excursion to the Soldiers' Home. About eight hundred men are expected for the 10:45 train this morning.

The Southern Pacific overland train from the coast that should have arrived here at 10:40 last night was five hours late, and was caused by a washout in Arizona. This is the season of the year when cloudbursts are numerous in that country.

"FLOODED HIM ONCE."

Outcome of a Blacksmith's Row on Boyle Heights.

A few days ago James Sullivan, a blacksmith on Boyle Heights, was arrested as the instance of his employer, A. Sturdy, charged with embezzlement. He had given Sullivan accounts to collect for wages, and charged that the latter embezzled $1.50. The complaint was dismissed. Yesterday Sullivan was before Justice Lockwood on the charge of beating his former employer. Sturdy did not appear to prosecute, and Sullivan explained the case to the judge, saying: "It does not seem to me that I have done anything wrong. He has been arrested for embezzlement, and I just plugged him once, Judge; that's all."

"Well, I'll just fine you $10 for 'plugging' him," said the judge.

Sullivan was somewhat surprised, thinking that as the man did not appear to prosecute, the case was ended. Not knowing that he had pleaded guilty in explaining the case to the judge.

This is peculiar weather, altogether a rainy winter followed by a chilly summer. A remonstrance should be sent to the weather clerk.

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs has decided to report favorably the bill for survey of the railway connecting North and South America.

An Ohio school teacher is charged with having married six women within three years. He has been arrested, and will now probably consider marriage a failure.

The arrest of Eyrard, the murderer, at Havana is one of the most sensational passages in criminal literature. In these days of the universal dissemination of news, the world is too small for a criminal to be safe abroad.

Those papers which first published the Lower California filibuster news are still attempting to make out that there was much in the affair. Had they not happened to be the first to give publicity to the fake, they would argue quite otherwise.

Presso has a small cocoonery, which expects to turn out about five hundred pounds of silk cocoons, worth in the market from a dollar to a dollar and forty cents per pound. The whole operation, from the hatching of the egg until the cocoon is made, only takes six weeks.

SEATTLE is to have iron and steel works, the commencement of which will cost $1,000,000. Such enterprises as these make a city permanently prosperous. We would like to see our wealthy citizens a little more active in efforts to secure manufacturing enterprises for Los Angeles. We cannot live on banks and new railway projects. Nature has given this city a splendid start, in the shape of an incomparable soil, climate and location. Now, man must carry on the work which Nature has so well begun.

A new system of railroading, known as the Hungarian, or "zone" plan, is attracting some attention from American railroad men. Under this system the various distances are divided into belts, or "zones," the fare to any place in one of which is the same. The ticket business is thus much simplified, tickets are for sale in postoffices, hotels and other public places, like postage stamps, and the consequence has been that travel has increased in one year 185 per cent. The cost of travel has, at the same time, been much reduced.

CHICAGO has got into a snarl in her World's Fair business. There are disagreements among subscribers to the guarantee fund, and it is alleged that the committee is not only incompetent, but the creature of a ring. The ideal site, which was made much of during the discussions on the subject of location, has disappeared, and there is a sharp contest on that question. The New York Tribune wants to know whether it might not be better to abandon the fair altogether, but then allowance must be made for New York's disappointment.

MAJ. MCKINLEY has earned many compliments and greatly enhanced his fame by the mastery manner in which he has carried through the tariff bill. The labor involved in the revision of tariff laws is immense. To frame such a bill as the one just passed is a prodigious task. It covers one hundred and fifty-six pages. There are four hundred schedules in the dutiable lists; under these, fifty-four classifications of articles. There are seven hundred and sixty-three paragraphs, including the free list, and three times that many separate items. In addition, the internal revenue and general provisions all several pages. Weeks and months were necessarily consumed in hearing arguments and making investigations as to the various paragraphs of each schedule and the general features, and in adjusting differences of opinion among members of the sub-committee. The bill was passed as it came from the hands of Maj. McKinley and his associates, with the slight changes proposed by them, while seventy amendments were made to the Mills bill in the last Democratic House. Even those who do not approve of all the features of the McKinley bill must give its author credit for the great ability and untiring energy which he has displayed.

OUR PATRIOT DEAD.

As each recurring Memorial day comes rolling round with the unending cycle of Time, the patriotic citizen of the Republic turns instinctively, and with reverent and grateful heart, to again consider the origin of the day, the reason for its observance, and to bless anew the memory of the silent host gone before, by whose valor and sublime devotion the Union was saved and the Government preserved.

The story of that mighty conflict, and of the men who died therein that liberty might survive and free government endure, is the most marvelous story in all the annals of time. It is only when we come to consider the long conflict in some of its details and results that we can even begin to comprehend its vast and far-reaching character. When we enter the domain of statistics and look at aggregates, showing the mighty host who took the field on the Union side, showing the losses in battle and by disease during the war, and the vast losses since the war from the effect of wounds received and disease incurred in the service, the mind is appalled. It is next to impossible for it to fully grasp the immense facts which these pregnant statistics convey.

The war figures recently compiled by the Commissioner of Pensions, and which were reproduced in detail by us yesterday, tell a story, the like of which the annals of the world do not record. Glance at some of the tremendous aggregates:

The whole number of soldiers enlisted during the war for the Union reached the enormous number of 2,213,355. The number who fell in battle and died from other casualties, and who succumbed to disease, up to July 1, 1895, was 384,116. The number of honorably discharged survivors at that date was 1,702,069. The number of honorably discharged survivors at the same date, who were subject to the usual laws of mortality, was 1,116,069.

The number who, because of wounds and other disabilities, were subject to a higher rate of mortality, equal to twelve years' shortening of the expectation of life, was 536,000. The estimated total number who will survive, July 1, 1890, is 1,246,089; of which grand total the Commissioner estimates that 581,089 are probably subject to the ordinary life tables, and 415,000 are subject to a greater death rate. The number of survivors borne on the pension rolls, January 1, 1890, is given at 373,102; while the number not on the pension rolls at that date is put at 872,987.

The Commissioner estimates that during the next six years at least 200,000 of the surviving veterans of the war will die; that during the next twelve years at least 450,000 will have died; and that during the next eighteen years at least 730,000 will have joined the great brigade of the dead. The most novel and striking result reached by Gen. Baum, however, after having pursued the subject into the records of death which the public archives contain, and after careful study in connection with the accepted life tables, is his conclusion that each of over half a million veterans now living, namely, 586,000, will yet yield up twelve years of their lives on account of the wear and hardship of life service. That is to say, the reasonable expectation of life on the part of this number of survivors has, when judged by the statistics of those who have already passed beyond, been shortened by twelve years.

What an appalling story does this tell! Nearly four hundred thousand soldiers and sailors died in battle and by disease during the conflict, and the lives of nearly six hundred thousand of the survivors shortened by twelve years each! Or, reducing the shortened lives to years, the sum total amounts to the grand aggregate of 7,632,000 years! It is a novel and startling view of the disastrous effects of the war upon human life, not only the lives of the vast army who fell during the conflict and who have since died of wounds and disease, but also upon the lives of a large percentage of the survivors. These tremendous facts illustrate yet further the costly nature of the struggle, and show how priceless is the Union preserved.

Compared with the most tremendous efforts made and the mightiest results achieved in the great war of history, the American rebellion stands in the very foreground. In extent of resources employed; in magnitude and extent of operations; in numbers of men and masses of material; in losses in battle; on the stake fought for and in results achieved, the conflict waged for the preservation of the Union stands out, and will forever stand out in history, as among the greatest wars of mankind. The conflict differed essentially from all those that have gone before. It was not a conflict waged to exalt despots or to perpetuate despotism, nor a war of conquest, but a war for the conservation of republican institutions; a war to preserve and perpetuate that which our revolutionary sires had handed down to their sons; a war to preserve liberty in the great Republic, the hope of the world.

A quarter of a century has come and gone since the last armed foe laid down his sword and acknowledged the power, the majesty and the beneficence of the Union. Peace has come. The red and smoky line of battle has long since receded in the dim distance. The trampled and shot-torn battlefields of the war are green with grass, or bespangled with flowers. The husbandman has resumed his labors; industry has prospered and happy. The honored dead, who feel that the Republic might live and her sons possess the joys of freedom and the pride of independence, sleep in their honored graves. They have sacred sepulture, some on the red field of war where they fell, some in unknown graves on the Rappahannock and around the capital which they defended; some in peerless Arlington, the Mecca of the American patriot; some in the swamps of the far South; some in churchyards of the North and West; some on our own Pacific Slope. But, wherever they sleep, the graves of these patriot soldiers are honored by their grateful countrymen. They sleep a long, dreamless sleep; their memories fixed in the hearts of their countrymen; their souls, let us trust, with God. No sounds of war disturb their sweet repose; no blast of trumpet nor blast of bugle, nor rattle of drum, nor roar of artillery, nor crash of musketry, nor tramp of charging squadron, nor scream of shell, nor shriek of wounded, nor moan of dying shall evermore disturb their peaceful rest. Fighting under their resplendent banner, they died for the Republic, and so dying, made themselves immortal. We may speak their praises, we may exalt their virtues, we may defy their patriotism, we may attempt to tell the story of their valor and their matchless achievements, we may declare sublime their deaths, but words are weak and human testimony inadequate to do them justice. What they did there on the battlefields of the Rebellion transcends description. They offered up the ultimate sacrifice, the last sacrifice the citizen can offer for his fellows and his country. They performed the supreme act which makes their everlasting monument; they died for their country! They made their lives immortal, their deaths sublime. Their great deeds make their own and the Nation's proudest monument.

Today, with reverent hearts and grateful hearts, we strew flowers over their graves, exalt their virtues and bless their memories. Green be the sod above their heads, and peaceful be their rest in the Great Beyond! "Best, soldier, rest, thy warfare o'er; Sleep the sleep that knows no breaking; Dream of battlefields no more. Days of danger, nights of waking."

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—Paul Kauer will hold the boards for the remainder of this week, including a matinee tomorrow. The attendance has been very light, though there was some improvement in that respect last night.

LOS ANGELES THEATRE.—There was another large house last night to witness the variety performance of Hermann's "Transatlantic." The exceptional merit of this combination of acts as a whole, entitles it to the public patronage it is receiving. The chief features of the entertainment are the work of Trewey, the shadow artist and clever equilibrist, the dancing of Katie Seymour, which is the best of the kind ever seen here, and the burlesque by Ross and Miss Fenelon. Mr. Ross is a first-class comedian in his line, and he evidently has talent of a kind that would entitle him to rank high in the legitimate drama if he were to adopt that line.

TO HONOR GARFIELD.

The President at Cleveland to Join in Memorial Services.

CLEVELAND (O.) May 29.—[By the Associated Press.] The President arrived this afternoon and received a salute of twenty-one guns. The city is handsomely decorated, thousands of people being on the streets. The Forest City troop of horse seconded the President to the residence of Sam P. Ellis, the Vice-President and Cabinet going to other private residences.

An enormous crowd was at the depot and followed the party through the streets to its destination. Enthusiasm was intense, the shouting at some times drowning out the noise of the guns on the march of the President. The first person to greet the President at the depot was ex-President Hayes. After the President had stopped at Mr. Ellis's house, others of the party from Washington were escorted to different residences, at which they will stop.

Gen. Sherman arrived this afternoon and is the guest of his nephew, Henry Sherman. Tonight the President was tendered a public reception at the Sullivan House, at which there was a awful crush. The city is gayly decorated from one end to the other. The exercises at the Garfield memorial begin at 8 o'clock tomorrow.

WHISKY IN MAINE.

A Ruling Against Prohibition in the Pine Tree State.
AUGUSTA (Me.) May 29.—[By the Associated Press.] The Supreme Court today announced an unanimous decision in the noted Burns liquor case, reversing the decision of the lower court, which convicted Burns under the statute. Burns arrived two years ago and opened in Augusta an original package business, selling only liquors imported from the provinces or other countries, claiming that the State had no right under the United States Constitution to interfere with him in the sale of liquor, which he carried up step by step until it is now decided in Burns's favor. The Court says in part:

The Iowa case just decided by the Supreme Court of the United States clearly settles the question. We are bound by that decision to reverse the ruling below and declare the law as contained in the act of the respondent. The minority opinion in the Iowa case is elaborate and commends itself to many of our countrymen. Our only difference is due to the judgment which prevails. Our statute prohibits only unlawful sales, its interpretation must be constitutional.

Italian Strikers Making Trouble.
MAY'S LANDING (N. J.) May 29.—This afternoon at Richmond Italian laborers on the railroad, who claim not to have received pay for several weeks, struck and built obstructions across the track. They are armed with pickets and clubs, and will not allow others to work until they are paid. The Sheriff went to the scene, but could do nothing. He will go out with troops tomorrow, and trouble is feared.

Alleged Dynamite Arrested.
CHICAGO, May 29.—An Anarchist named Kaiser was arrested today, charged with complicity in the Haymarket dynamite affair. It was alleged he was an intimate of Hor. Most, and had been taking in a very revolutionary manner. Kaiser denies any connection with Herr Most, saying they have been enemies for years. He also denies any connection with the dynamite scheme.

The Pan-American Railway.
WASHINGTON, May 29.—The House Committee on Foreign Affairs has decided to report favorably the bill for survey of the railway connecting North and South America.

MEMORIAL-DAY POEMS.

Our Immortal Dead.
O the earth is fair and sweet,
The world is full of life;
Yet, shining Sun, beneath our feet,
Remains where emerald grasses meet,
And all Spring's fairest blossoms blow,
The Nation's loyal dead sleep low
Within four hundred thousand graves.

A quarter century hath sped,
In days, and nights, and months, and years,
Since first we laid away our dead
Beneath the Union's flag and stars.
Flowers bloom within the summer's calm,
Birds sing within the leafy trees,
And daisies breathe their tranquil psalm
To every passing breeze.

And smiling harvests pour their tides
Of rippling wheat and golden corn,
Above the plains where heroes died
In grim War's blood-red morn.
When Treason loosed the hounds of strife,
And slaughter poured its rain of fire,
Seeking to quench the Nation's life—
Make Freedom's fondest hopes expire.

O heroes! soldiers! royal braves!
"Be free!" the air we breathe today,
Because you gave your lives away
For Freedom's sake.

Ring, sacred chiming bells,
From land of palm to land of pine!
We hold them dear who sleep so low—
The blessed dead who loved us so—
And with each coming year we'll tell
The deeds they wrought.

By their life's blood and pain,
O heroes, soldiers! royal braves!
The wounds, the pain, the blood, the sweat,
The sacred graves that have been paid,
They're Freedom's harvest seed.
This land, which once was free, is free
In Freedom's consecrated ground,
Ring, bells, and tell to winds that blow,
To mighty times that round us now.

That this Nation's flag shall stand
Your dead lives gift of peace and
O death! O heroes!
Each sacred grave
Holds honor's shield and hero's trust,
Beneath the Union's flag and stars,
E'en as a nation counts her dead;
We'll maintain your noble deeds,
And guard your sacred dust!

The Nation's Debt.
Sort let the foot fall on the graves,
The mighty silent army of the dead,
The advance to that rugged, shadowy land
Was as a conqueror, of conquerors go at last.
And as we stand upon this consecrated spot
Of "hallowed ground," where they died to save,
Let us remember the debt of our great
Land, and guard not only the graves of their bodies, but their souls, their blood, their

THE FISTIC ARENA.

Slogging Match Between Two Antipodeans.

Fitzsimmons of New Zealand Knocks Out McCarthy of Australia.

Nine Hard Rounds Fought at the California Athletic Club.

Peter Jackson Arrives in San Francisco and Talks Hopefully of His Meeting with the Great Sullivan.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29.—[By the Associated Press.] Billy McCarthy, the Australian, and Bob Fitzsimmons of New Zealand fought at the California Athletic Club tonight for a purse of $1250. It was Fitzsimmons's first appearance in the city in a finish fight.

Billy Murphy of Australia and Eddy Greaney of San Francisco appeared in a four-round contest previous to the finish fight. Greaney drew blood from Murphy's forehead in the first round. Each round brought forth a roar of applause, and when Referee Hogan awarded the fight to Greaney on points a tumult, probably never exceeded in the clubrooms, followed. President Fuld finally announced that the board of directors would hold a special meeting to consider as to the award of the contest.

At 8:55 McCarthy and Fitzsimmons appeared in the ring.

First round—Fitzsimmons, who towered over his opponent, guarded himself loosely and allowed McCarthy to land his left inside his guard several times. He used his right freely, but fell short, while McCarthy planted some good left-handers in the big fellow's face.

Second round—Both men did considerable fighting, with the result that McCarthy received a lump over the left eye and became somewhat winded.

Third round—Fitzsimmons's long reach was too much for McCarthy, whom he upper-cut and countered with both hands. McCarthy was knocked down near the end of the round by several well-directed right-handers.

Fourth round—Fitzsimmons landed right and left on his small but game opponent's head, and nearly knocked him out by free upper-cutting in McCarthy's mouth. McCarthy was knocked down again and the end of the round found him unable to stop the big man's blows, who was winding him with the force of his two-handed punches in McCarthy's mouth.

Fifth round—Two handed body blows at close quarters, diversified by some long drivers from the New Zealand leader, punished McCarthy badly, but he made a couple of good stops, and the New Zealander seemed to be suffering at the end of the round.

Sixth round—Fitzsimmons hammered McCarthy at long range, compelling the Australian to close and clinch. McCarthy twice tried a pivot blow and once landed fairly on the New Zealander's cheek, but the lanky antipodean refused to be daunted.

Seventh round—Fitzsimmons renewed his tactics of driving for McCarthy's head with both hands in quick succession. McCarthy was badly punished about the face, while Fitzsimmons had not a mark.

Eighth round—McCarthy tried gamely to land telling blows on his tall opponent's neck, while the latter continued to drive his left into McCarthy's mouth, which was bleeding profusely, following it by right-handers on the ear.

Ninth round—McCarthy succeeded in landing a sounding right-hander on Fitzsimmons's left ear, but paid for it in a shower of fierce punches which left him battered, bleeding and groggy. He was twice knocked down, and at the end of the round was unable to continue the fight, which was awarded to the New Zealander. The latter made his opponent a present of $100.

THE COLORED BRUISER.

Jackson in San Francisco Ready to Meet Sullivan.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29.—[By the Associated Press.] Peter Jackson, accompanied by Parson Davis and Jack Ashton, arrived here this morning. When asked what his arrangements were, Jackson replied: "I am in the hands of the California Athletic Club. Any arrangements will be satisfactory to me."

"How about the Sullivan fight?"

"I am perfectly willing to meet him when and where the California Club may designate. It has the matter in hand."

"Do you think Sullivan desires to meet you?"

"I thoroughly believe it from representations that have been made to me. His fighting days are not near over yet. There will be no trouble about his getting into condition. I now regard the match as a settled fact. After the 23d of June he will be able to talk more freely."

"Will you have a finish fight before that time?"

"I hardly think so. There

A DAY IN CONGRESS.

Senator Stewart After Maj. Powell's Scalp.

The Geological Survey Run by a Lobby in the Interest of a Ring.

The "Original Package" Bill Finally Passed by the Senate.

Favorable Action in the House on Bills Appropriating Money for Public Buildings in Western Cities.

By Telegram to The Times.

WASHINGTON (D. C.), May 29.—[By the Associated Press.] Senate.—Mr. Stewart, rising to a question of personal privilege, had read an article from a local paper containing a statement by Maj. Powell, director of the Geological Survey, in reference to Mr. Stewart's recent resolution, in which Maj. Powell spoke of the movement as instigated by land sharks and speculators for the purpose of "gobbling up irrigable lands and establishing a sort of hydraulic feudal system." Mr. Stewart sketched an outline of what had been done in the work of stimulating irrigation in the far West recently. Powell, he said, had used more than half of the appropriation in vast and expensive surveys of no practical use for the object in view, and he intimated that Powell had enormous power in both houses from his giving employment to a lot of young men, the sons and relatives of members of Congress, and that he kept an enormous lobby in Washington to control the action of Congress. The bureau of geology and mineralogy was not one of the departments of the government, Mr. Stewart said, but a mass of humbug and foolishness.

Mr. Gorman defended Maj. Powell as a valuable public officer who discharged his duty faithfully. Mr. Teller introduced a joint resolution setting forth that it is the determined policy of the United States Government to use both gold and silver as full legal tender money under the ratio now existing in the United States, or which may hereafter be established by the United States, alone or acting in accord with other nations. Laid on the table and ordered printed.

The Imported Liquor Bill was then taken up, the question being on the following substitute, offered by Mr. Gray, to the substitute from the Judiciary Committee:

That fermented, distilled or other intoxicating liquors transferred as articles of commerce or brought into any State or Territory from a point or place outside of such State or Territory for use, consumption or sale therein, shall not be exempt, nor shall the owner or person in possession thereof be exempt from the operation of the laws or police regulations or taxing power of such State or Territory, affecting or applicable to all other like property by reason of such liquor being in the original packages of importation or transportation as subjects of interstate or foreign commerce.

Mr. Gray's amendment was agreed to, yeas, 28; nays, 20. The yeas were Messrs. Allen, Allison, Blair, Blair, Brewster, Calkins, Dawes, Edmunds, Hoar, Ingalls, Jones, McKim, Moody, Morrill, Paddock, Plumb, Power, Sherman, Vest, Wilson, [Hoar].

Mr. Vest moved to amend the substitute by making it apply to fresh beef, veal, mutton, lamb and pork, and argued that if the bill was to become a law it should not be confined to intoxicating liquors. This was the first time he knew of the Supreme Court being the suggester of remedies. The proposed law would produce chaos, but if he were wrong in his position, and the friends of the bill were right, then he wanted to give the cattle-raisers of the West the same privileges granted the Iowa Legislature in regard to the exclusion of alcoholic stimulants. He had served on the senate committee in relation to the beef business, and found an alarming state of things in the inspection of beef cattle.

The vote on Mr. Vest's amendment was, yeas, 5; nays, 22; the yeas being Call, Morgan, Payne, Stewart and Vest.

Mr. Wilson of Iowa offered a substitute for Mr. Gray's amendment providing that liquors transported into any State or Territory for use, consumption or sale, or storage, shall, on their arrival be subject to the operation and effect of the laws of such State or Territory enacted in the exercise of its police power, and shall not be exempt therefrom by reason of their being introduced in original packages.

Mr. Wilson's substitute was adopted 33 to 10. The bill then passed—34 to 10—as follows: Yeas—Allen, Allison, Blair, Call, Casey, Colquhoun, Culver, Dixon, Dolph, Edmunds, George, Hawley, Hiscok, Hoar, Ingalls, Jones (Nev.), McMillan, Mitchell, Moody, Morrill, Paddock, Platt, Plumb, Power, Pugh, Sawyer, Spooner, Stewart, Stockbridge, Walthall, Washburn, Wilson (Iowa).—33. Nays—Bate, Blodgett, Cockrell, Coke, Harris, Jones (Ark.), Hurler, Vance, Vest, Voorhees.—10.

Mr. Voorhees moved to amend the title by making it read: "A bill to override the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in its interpretation and construction of the Constitution on the subject of commerce between the several States, and thereby to relieve the State of Iowa from the consequences of her own misguided legislation." Rejected.

The title was then amended on motion of Mr. Wilson of Iowa to read: "A bill to limit the effect of regulations of commerce between the several States and with foreign countries in certain cases." Referred.

The Senate adjourned until Monday. House.—The Committee on Public Lands reported back the Senate bill (with amendments) for the general forfeiture of land grants. Ordered recommitted.

The Senate bill was passed for relief of the widow of Rear-Admiral David McDougal.

The House went into committee of the whole on public building bills. The following public building bills were laid aside favorably: Stockton, Cal., $75,000; Pueblo, Colo., $150,000; Portland, Ore., $400,000.

There was a lively tilt brought out by the bill for a public building at Bar Harbor, Me., appropriating $75,000.

Mr. Mills had asked what the direction of the committee was, and Mr. Milliken replied that two Republican bills would be called up and then one Democratic bill.

Mr. Mills thought this unfair, and that the committee should alternate between the two sides.

Mr. Allen declared that the whole system was vicious, and that politics should have nothing to do with the question.

The committee finally rose. The Agricultural Bill was reported, and the House adjourned until Monday.

End of a Conspiracy Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29.—The trial of A. S. Mendez and Manuel Facio, accused of conspiracy against Alexander K. Coney, the Mexican Consul, was concluded this morning by the jury rendering a verdict of acquittal. Coney claimed that they conspired to have a suit, which was brought against him in the United States Court, commenced by Mrs. A. de la Torre, because he refused to give them money or employment in the consulate. On the other hand, the defense charged that Coney was prosecuting Facio because he had been denouncing the Mexican government.

A Jersey Solon's Queer Antics. TRENTON (N. J.), May 29.—Assemblyman Trier, who suddenly disappeared several days ago from Trenton with the legislative copy of the Newark elevated railroad bill, has returned to his home. He is out with a statement, claiming in substance that it was the lobby that secured the passage of the bill, and not a legislature of the people, and justified his action as a move made in the interests of the public.

As a subaltern officer in the Mexican war, which he detested, he simply did his duty and made no impression on his companions or superiors. As a wood-chopper he was beaten by all the wood-choppers of Missouri. As a merchant he could not compete with his rivals. As a clerk he was a listless dreamer, and yet the moment supreme command devolved upon him the dross disappeared, dullness and indifference gave way to a clarified intellect, which grasped the situation with the power of inspiration. The larger the field, the greater the peril, the more mighty the results dependent upon the issue, the more superbly heroic to all the requirements of the emergency. From serene heights, unclouded by passion, jealousy or fear, he surveyed the whole boundless field of operations, and with unerring skill forced each part to work in harmony with the general plan. A Large Fruit Sale.

(Pacific Rural Press.)

A sale has just been made which is probably the largest single transaction ever made in fresh fruits in California. The San Francisco agents of a Chicago firm have negotiated with Gen. Bidwell for the sale of the entire season's crop of his Rancho Chico orchards of 1250 acres, and vineyard of about two hundred acres. The firm has resold, at a handsome profit, a portion of the crop to canning companies at Marysville and Yuba City, and will dry the rest at Chico. The magnitude of this transaction can be realized when it is known that the crop will be anywhere from four to six million pounds of apples, peaches, pears, plums, prunes, nectarines, grapes, blackberries, almonds, walnuts and raisins.

COUNTING PEOPLE.

Some of the inquiries to be made by the Census Enumerators in June.

The eleventh census of the United States will be taken during the month of June. The census enumerators will begin their work on Monday, June 2d, and will visit every house and ask questions concerning every person and every family in the United States.

The questions that will be asked call for the name of every person residing in the United States on the 1st day of June, with their sex, age, and whether white, black, mulatto, quadroon, octoroon, or Chinese, Japanese or Indian. Inquiry will be made also of every person as to whether they are married, widowed, or divorced, if single, married, widowed, or divorced, if married, whether married during the census year. The place of birth of each person, and the place of birth of the father and mother of each person, will also be called for, as well as a statement as to the profession, trade or occupation followed, and the number of months unemployed during the census year.

For all persons 10 years of age or over a return must be made by the enumerator as to the number able to read and write, and also the number who can speak English. For those who cannot speak English the particular language or dialect spoken by them will be ascertained. For children of school age, also, the number of months they attended school will be recorded by the census enumerators. In the case of mothers an inquiry will be made as to whether they have any children living at the present time. This inquiry is to be made of all women who are or have been married, including all who are widows or have been divorced.

Foreign-born males of adult age, that is, 21 years of age or over, will be asked as to the number of years they have been in the United States, and whether they have been naturalized or have taken out naturalization papers. Of the head of each family visited the question will be asked as to the number of persons in the family, and whether his home is owned or hired, also, if he is a mortgagee, whether he is free from mortgage incumbrance. If the head of the family be a farmer, similar inquiries will be made concerning the ownership of the farm. In addition to these inquiries, which are made on the population schedule, the law under which the census is taken makes provision for special inquiries concerning such of the population as may be mentally or physically defective, or deaf, blind, idiotic, feeble-minded, insane, or otherwise, who may be temporarily disabled by sickness, disease, or accident at the time of the enumeration.

Certain special inquiries will also be made concerning inmates of prisons and reformatories and of charitable and benevolent institutions. Besides this, a statement will be called for concerning persons who have died during the census year, giving their name, age, sex, occupation and cause of death.

This official count of the people comes but once in ten years, and every man and every woman should consider it to be their duty to answer the questions of the census enumerators willingly and promptly, so that definite and accurate information may be gained concerning the 55,000,000 people living within the bounds of this great country.

CONSUMPTION

—CAN BE CURED—

This is being verified every week by those who are using the AERIAN SYSTEM of practice, consisting of MEDICATED INHALATIONS and COMPOUND EXTRACTS as prescribed by

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D.

M. C. P. O.

187 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal.

This system of practice is effectual in the cure of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The earlier symptoms of consumption consist in a weakness at times or a disposition to remain inactive, a peculiar sensitiveness to the effects of cold; also breathlessness upon moving or ascending a hill or stairs, a slight cough, with or without expectoration, flying pains throughout the chest or back, or under the shoulder blades. These symptoms are more noticeable toward or in the night, and in many cases a blue lividity of the lips and roots of the finger nails.

It is unnecessary to give the symptoms in the more advanced stages of consumption, as a careful family in our State wherein the ravages have not been fatal to a greater or less degree, and while it is true it is no less true that those persons who became the easy victims to this foul destroyer during the early stages of this disease, taken of the benefits to be derived from using the AERIAN system of practice, nine-tenths of them might have been permanently cured; and while our climate is probably equal, if not superior to any climate in the world, yet all will agree that something more heroic is required to kill and destroy the living germs found so numerous in this disease—for all scientific, intelligent and thinking people concede the fact that consumption does arise from a living germ found distributed along the diseased tissue of the bronchial tubes and lungs, which nothing will kill or destroy equal to the Medicated Inhalations, when properly applied.

Pursons taking this treatment can use the remedies at home, or at the office.
